Conditions Governing the Reproduction of Works in the Collection

1. Objects in the collections of the Bennington Museum may not be reproduced in any way without the prior written consent of the Curator or another officer of the Bennington Museum.
2. Only transparencies and photographs supplied or approved by the Bennington Museum may be used for the reproduction of its collections.
3. The Bennington Museum must be sent a copy of any transparency made of works in its collections by the publishing party. It is understood that transparencies thus provided may be reproduced by the Bennington Museum in catalogs and other publications, and that slides may be made from them and distributed for educational use.
4. Fees, as outlined in the Schedule of Fees, are payable upon presentation of invoice unless otherwise agreed by the Bennington Museum in writing, and are not refundable if the work is subsequently not used.
5. The fee for transparencies covers only rental of the transparency. This rental is for a period of three or six months and the transparency must be returned at the end of that time unless the museum agrees in writing to an extension, in which case an additional rental fee will be charged at the rate of $20 per month.
6. This permission is a non-exclusive license to reproduce the work(s) in one edition in the one language specified, unless otherwise agreed by the Bennington Museum in writing. Permission to use the reproduction(s) in reprints, revised editions, foreign language translations, or derivative works, must be requested separately.
7. This permission is valid only for the individual, company, or institution to whom it is specifically issued and may not be transferred, assigned, sold, or otherwise disposed of without the Bennington Museum's permission in writing. In the case of joint publishing ventures, both parties must obtain permission and agree to the conditions; if this is not done, the permission is valid only for the party which has completed this requirement who hereby undertakes to withhold the reproduction of the museum's work from the other party. The party receiving this permission undertakes not to make the photographic material, color separations, plates, or any other related material available to any other person, company, or institution without the Bennington Museum's permission in writing.
8. Permission to reproduce a work is subject to any reproduction rights the artist may have retained.
9. The work must be reproduced in its entirety unless express permission is given to crop or to print details, which must be appropriately identified. Nothing may be superimposed on the image.
10. Permission to reproduce works in color is contingent upon the Bennington Museum's approval of one or more proofs as necessary, which must be submitted in time to make corrections before the final printing. If a proof satisfactory to the Museum is not attained, permission to use the color reproduction is automatically withdrawn.
11. The Bennington Museum assumes no responsibility for any royalties or fee claims by the artist or on the artist's behalf or any claims by any outside party.
12. Only publications bearing appropriate copyright notices may reproduce work in the Bennington Museum's collections. A reproduction of a work constitutes a warranty to the Bennington Museum that all available copyright protection for the reproduction has been secured. Such copyrights, insofar as they apply to the reproduction(s) of the Bennington Museum's work(s), may not be transferred or assigned without the museum's permission in writing.
13. The Bennington Museum reserves all television and motion picture rights on all reproductions of works in the museum collections.
14. All reproductions shall be identified as such on the label provided by the Bennington Museum and shall bear the following credit line:

Bennington Museum, Bennington, Vermont
15. The Bennington Museum must be sent a copy of any publication in which reproduction(s) of works in its collections appear.
16. This permission is valid for a period of two years. If the publication has not appeared at the end of that time, permission is automatically revoked and must be requested again.
17. The borrower of a color transparency must return the transparency in the same condition in which it was lent. In case of any damage to the transparency, including surface abrasions and scratches, the addition of foreign substances including tape and tape residues, and inscriptions in grease pencil and ink, the borrower will be charged for repair or replacement of the transparency at the discretion of the Bennington Museum.
